Operative Provisions

1. Tenancy Setup Summary

The front sheet shows whether the tenancy file is ready for signature, what still needs attention, and which supporting records should stay with the agreement after sign-up.

PROPERTY	12 Example Street, London, SW1A 1AA
LANDLORD	Jane Landlord
TENANT	Alice Tenant
TENANCY START DATE	2 May 2026
TENANCY TYPE	England assured periodic tenancy
RENT	£1500.00
DEPOSIT	£1500.00
BILLS INCLUDED	Gas, Electricity, Internet / broadband
STATUS	READY TO SIGN

The agreement anchors the tenancy record for a straightforward England periodic residential let and should be retained alongside the supporting documents in the file.

Status meaning: the core tenancy facts are in place and no structured blocker is currently recorded.

If the tenancy is not set up clearly and consistently, it can affect how issues are handled later, including possession.

2. Key Setup Checks

- Core party, property, payment, and start-date details are recorded clearly.
- Deposit support documents are included so the protection record can stay with the file.
- The supporting records in this pack are ready to be kept with the signed agreement.
- Right to rent checks are recorded for 25 April 2026.

3. How the File Works

Supporting documents included: Main tenancy agreement; Pre-tenancy checklist; Keys and handover record; Utilities and meter handover sheet; Pet request / consent addendum; Tenancy variation record.

Next step: sign the agreement, complete handover, and keep the full pack together as the tenancy record.

- Sets up the tenancy clearly and keeps the core landlord file together from the start.
- Keeps the payment, deposit, utilities, and handover records aligned with the signed agreement.
- Reduces the risk of later confusion, missing evidence, or rebuilding the file when enforcement or possession issues appear.

4. What This File Helps Prevent

- Unclear rent or payment terms.
- Missing deposit records.
- Poor handover evidence.
- Disputes over keys or utilities.
- Uncertainty if possession later becomes necessary.

Execution

This document should be signed and dated by the parties and retained with the tenancy records.
