- If payment is late, the landlord should record the missed payment clearly and keep the rent record up to date.

- If repairs are not reported promptly, the landlord should record what was known, when, and what was done next.
- Repeated breach of agreed management rules should be logged clearly with the date, the issue, and the written follow-up.
- Where an issue arises, the landlord should record it clearly, communicate in writing, and keep the tenancy file updated.
