Hi Shellyann,

We hope this message finds you well.

It is with sincere regret that we must inform you that the landlord of the property you are currently occupying has formally requested possession of the property. As a result, and in accordance with the terms outlined in your temporary accommodation agreement, we are required to provide you with notice to vacate the property.

We understand that this news may be upsetting and disruptive, and we are truly sorry to be delivering this unfortunate decision. Please be assured that this action is not a reflection on you as a tenant, but rather a requirement placed upon us by the property owner.
