Dear Mr Pradhan,

Further to the attendance at the property on Monday 30th March 2026, I write to record that Mr David Castle, of Black & White Estate Agents attended the property and stated that he had been instructed by you to take over management of the property.

During the conversation at the door, he handed me a written note, a copy of which is attached for ease of reference. I was also encouraged not to continue paying the rent on the basis that GOA Property Solutions Ltd was said to be taking the money and not passing it on. I understand that this may have been said in an effort to prevent that from continuing. I appreciate that this situation may be very difficult for you, and it is also causing uncertainty for me and my household. However, I am not in a position to act on informal verbal instructions given at the door, particularly where doing so could prejudice my tenancy, and I do not wish to be drawn into the dispute between you and GOA Property Solutions Ltd.

For clarity, I am willing to comply with any formally notified change in management or rent payment arrangements once proper written notification has been provided.

As you are aware from previous correspondence, I have already requested that all communication regarding the tenancy be made by email only. In those circumstances, I would ask that there be no further unarranged attendances at the property by you, your representatives, or any other persons said to be acting on your behalf, as these unexpected visits are causing further stress and uncertainty to me and my household.

If there has been any formal change in management or rent payment arrangements, please provide formal written confirmation by email and or by post, whichever is appropriate.

Until such formal written notification is provided, my position remains unchanged.

Kind regards,
Shellyann Henry
